

Michele Cheng-Newson

Michele Cheng-Newson graduated from the University of Waterloo with a Bachelor of Applied Science in Mechanical Engineering and Management Sciences. She has over 17 years of experience in the nuclear industry. She first started as an Application Engineer, then moved into Sales as an Account Manager, then progressed to Business Unit Manager and also as Nuclear Sales Leader. Michele is grateful that she has a company that supports her varying interests including Sales, Engineering, Project Management, Strategy and Operations. Michele completed her Master in Business Administration in 2021 and is now focused on Inside Sales Operations of the Lakeside Nuclear Team. She was previously a member of the OCNI Board of Director for eight(8) consecutive years and held various roles including Secretary, Treasurer and Chair of various Board Committees. She was also a member of the TSSA Boiler Pressure Vessel Advisory Council and collaborated with CSA through OCNI as she has a love of all things quality, codes and standards. She is eager to be on the OCNI Board again to once again make a positive impact in our nuclear industry. Michele lives with her husband Ryan and daughter Olivia in Milton. In her spare time, she enjoys running and mud races.

I am passionate about the nuclear industry and committed to driving positive change in our community. As a board member, I will bring my expertise in strategy, business operations and governance to help advance OCNI's mission to deliver value to its members through programs and initiatives that support success in the domestic and international nuclear markets. Together, we can drive and strengthen our Canadian nuclear supply chain.
